Introduction

The Morningstar Category™ classification system for funds lets institutions, advisers and investors effectively compare similar funds. We group funds which can be reasonably considered to be close investment alternatives, and for which performance and other statistical measures, such as fees, are comparable. The Morningstar Category classification system is a valuable referencing system to make fund selection efficient. Where possible, the Morningstar Category classification is intended to be compatible with Morningstar’s portfolio building philosophy, providing a fundamental structure for effective portfolio diversification across all asset classes.

Criteria for determining ‘close investment alternatives’ include (in order) whether:

► The tax treatment and legal characteristics of the funds is the same;
► Benchmarks, stated maximum and minimum exposures to asset classes, and possibly actual total exposures to various sectors, are similar and fall within the Morningstar definitions;
► The funds could be considered to be alternatives for performance comparisons and other statistical analysis and in constructing an investor’s portfolio;
► The fund’s investment style and market capitalisation constituency is considered to be highly consistent for portfolio construction purposes; and
► There are any other criteria that should be considered relevant by Morningstar. (For example, statements from the fund manager, where appropriate, may be considered when determining the classification of a fund.)

Morningstar’s Category classification system, constructed after consultation with local market participants, has been designed to ensure:

► Performance assessments can be made within groupings where both volatility and return can be justifiably compared;
► Statistical analysis, including ratings, within groupings can be justifiably compared;
► Easy choice of competing funds and market analysis through a logical referencing scheme;
► Analysis does not suffer from inconsistency of taxation treatment; and
► A classification system which is easily-understood, user-friendly, technically-defensible, and able to be implemented within reasonable timeframes.
